Pilot recalls Hwy 35 emergency landing

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

A plane landing on a freeway is something one might expect to find in a Hollywood movie.

Less so on a strip of Highway 35 near the Frost Centre south of Dorset.

Maple Lake's Doug Norris was cruising the skies above Algonquin Highlands township just after 10 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 2, when he realized his plane was losing power.

"We'd done about an hour's tour of Lake of Bays, Huntsville, and were on our way back [to Stanhope Airport]," says Norris, who had his daughter and her boyfriend with him at the time. "I saw that my engine power was declining."

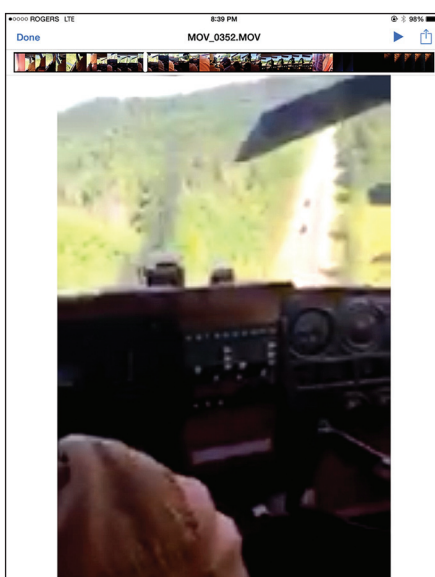

The carburetor in Norris's 1969 Cessna 172 four-seater had iced over. This is a flying hazard familiar to pilots, where the vaporization of fuel and pressure changes cause air passing through the carburetor to cool rapidly. If there is enough moisture, freezing can occur.

"When this happens, it chokes off the supply of fuel," Norris explains. "So basically the engine starves."

While there is a process to deal with an iced carburetor, the 54-year-old said it became clear within 30 seconds or so that he was not going to be able to re-establish power. That left him with about a minute of flying time before the plane would crash. He had to find somewhere to land. Quickly.

"What's within three-quarters of a mile?" Norris says, recalling his thought process from behind the controls.

The trio was flying over St. Nora's Lake at the time and as Norris scanned the greenery below, he saw nothing suitable, Doug Norris's daughter captured footage on her smartphone as her father landed his four-seater Cessna on Highway 35 in an emergency landing on Aug. 2.

inducing momentary "concern."

"Then, I started to see a little slash of Highway 35," he says.

His new landing strip.

While he'd never made such an emergency landing before, Norris, who's been flying for 25 years, explains that much of the training private pilots receive is on how to handle such situations.

"It's not rocket science," he says. "A lot of the training is actually what to do when things go wrong."

Norris, who sounds remarkably calm given his near-plummet from the sky just days earlier, zoned in on the task at hand.

‘I just didn’t register anything but that fairly small piece of tarmac’

“You become very focused and I just didn’t register anything but that fairly small piece of tarmac,” he says. That concentration paid off, because Norris landed the plane seamlessly on the highway.

It was after the plane rolled to a stop, the occupants of a car who’d watched the landing from behind running up to greet its relieved passengers, that the enormity of the situation hit Norris.

“Afterwards, I reflected,” he says. “My daughter, in a very 21st century move, had videotaped the approach and landing.”

Norris admits his language upon landing got a little “colourful.”

Algonquin Highlands firefighters and members of the Haliburton Highlands OPP detachment were dispatched to the scene.

“I’m very grateful for how the volunteer firefighters, many of whom are my neighbours, responded,” Norris says. “The folks at the Minden [OPP] detachment were very helpful.”

His plane, completely intact, was stored at a nearby baseball diamond and, after conversations with the appropriate authorities, arrangements were made to take off from the highway on Aug. 5.

Such cases require a commercial pilot and the engineer who does routine inspections on Norris’s plane is also a commercial pilot out of Lindsay, so, with the highway temporarily closed, of course, he flew the plane back to the airport around noon last Wednesday.

Norris stressed that private pilots are required to have their aircraft inspected by a licensed engineer annually, which he had done on his plane just recently.

He said the incident could perhaps have been avoided if he’d been more diligent in checking for conditions leading to carburetor ice, but perhaps not.

He likened the situation to a car getting a flat tire while driving down the highway; a potential outcome that comes along with the territory.

And, while he admits his nerves may be a bit jittery at first, his emergency stop isn’t deterring Norris from his passion. He’s already back in the sky.

BENEFIT ART EXHIBIT TO AID ANDRE LAPINE

Will Be Held Under Patronage of Lieutenant-Governor

Under the patronage of the Lieutenant-governor and Mrs. Bruce an exhibition and sale of works of art will be held on and after September 21, the proceeds of which will be devoted to assisting Andre Lapine, the distinguished artist, who has been a resident of Canada for 22 years and is an A.R.C.A., O.S.A. and member of the Water Color Society. Examples of Andre Lapine's work have on a number of occasions appeared in the rotogravure section of The Star Weekly.

Andre Lapine

On July 3 of this year Mr. Lapine was run down by a motor car and seriously injured. He underwent several operations and his condition is still grave. Other operations will be necessary before he can be considered out of danger. The "benefit" exhibition was started by the late C. B. Cleveland and a committee of friends.

Already some 30 works have been contributed from artists in all parts of Canada. These will be offered at moderate prices to make for a ready sale. The opening and private view of this exhibition will be held at the Toronto Art Gallery September 21, after which the pictures will be divided into two lots and exhibited for sale in the galleries of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. and the Robert Simpson Co. Ltd., who are giving their galleries without charge. Charles S. Band is chairman of the committee.

Hudson Henderson buys Dawson Insurance

by JENN WATT
Editor

After 64 years of providing insurance to the Haliburton Highlands, Dawson Insurance Brokers Ltd. is under new ownership.

While the name and the staff will remain, Dawson Insurance is now owned by Darryl Hudson of Hudson Henderson Insurance Brokers Ltd.

"Darryl and I have known each other for a good number of years and respect each other as business people," says Arthur Dawson, whose father Cliff started the business in 1951.

"I'd been thinking about it for a year or so and it just came up that Darryl was looking to expand and Haliburton would be a good fit for him. Our staff are continuing on – Maureen and Eileen – and we're welcoming Margaret Reiss, who was born and raised here," he says.

Reiss will be filling the role of operations/broker while Maureen Smith and Eileen Stiver will continue as customer service brokers. Dawson will be staying with the business with a new title: new sales broker and consultant.

Dawson and Hudson both say the insurance business is always changing with a range of duties each day.

"We could advise somebody on a business policy at 10 a.m. and then we could be insuring a cottage next and we could have a house fire in the afternoon. There's diversity in claims and duties and new business," says Hudson.

"It's an interesting field where you can learn every day. You're providing a personal service to people to explain a lot of the contracts and wordings," says Dawson.

Darryl Hudson, who grew up in Minden and attended high school in Haliburton, said he's pleased to offer service in Haliburton. This is the fourth office for the brokerage with others in Cannington, Bracebridge and Minden.

In bringing the brokerages together, more services are now being offered including travel insurance, life insurance, group benefits and financial services.

Hudson said this is also good for business clients.

"We can now do the business policy and add the employee benefits and group plan. We can consult on the employee benefits needs and bring life insurance for buy-sell agreements and financing needs. We can do travel insurance and RRSPs," Hudson said in an email.

The sale was "highly supported and well received" by the insurance companies of both businesses, Hudson says, and for Dawson Insurance clients there will be no changes to insurance policies.

The public is welcome to drop by the office to meet the staff and an open house is in the works.

Arthur Dawson, left, shakes hands with Darryl Hudson, who has purchased Dawson Insurance in Haliburton. The name and staff will remain the same. Hudson says offerings will expand to include financial services, life and travel insurance. JENN WATT Staff

A few tips to bear in mind this summer

by ELIZABETH BATE
Times Staff

The Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry is reminding campers, cottagers, and hikers to be mindful of bears this summer.

While bears generally avoid humans, they will be attracted by scents that may indicate food, and can venture out of hiding to try to get an easy meal, says the MNR's Bear Wise website.

Non-fatal bear attacks or encounters are hard to track as not every one is reported or recorded, however fatal bear encounters in North America average less than one per year according to a 2011 study by the Journal of Wildlife Management.

To make sure you're not seeing a bear in your own backyard, MNRF recommends limiting the amount of possible food sources left out at home. Garbage and recycling should have tight-fitting lids that prevent smells and animal tampering. Garbage bags should not be left out or left at the curb overnight, and meat or sweet berries should never be left in an open container.

In the wild bears will try to avoid humans and are more likely to run away from an encounter if they can, says MNRF.

You don't need special equipment with a lot of bells and whistles to keep bears at bay, but noise is key when hiking or biking, so a simple bell or whistle might do. That could also mean singing, whistling, or talking while moving through the woods. If you do pick up some bear spray, make sure to read the directions.

It's also imperative to be aware of your surroundings, so don't wear headphones and keep a look out for signs a bear has been in the area. This could include evidence of fresh droppings, tracks, or claw marks on trees.

Dogs should be kept on a leash when hiking. Furry friends are more likely to make a bear feel threatened if not kept under control.

Just like at home it's important to keep food stored securely, but those enjoying an afternoon in the woods should avoid the use of chemically sweet scents like perfume or deodorant that will attract wildlife.

Finally, MNR says when you're out and about you should always try to take a friend. Another person will help make twice as much noise and will provide twice as much eyesight to keep a lookout, as well as being twice as much fun.

For more information on bear safety tips or to report an encounter go to Ontario.ca/bearwise.

Carnarvon conundrum

IT'S TIME THAT Minden Hills township takes ownership of Carnarvon.

It is, after all, part of the municipality. Carnarvon, like a few other communities in or near Haliburton County, is a bit of an anomaly, a sort of municipal orphan.

When the province drew the lines for the current amalgamated townships of Haliburton County circa 2000, it made a couple of missteps.

One was leaving half of Dorset in Lake of Bays township in the District of Muskoka and half in Haliburton County's Algonquin Highlands.

That divide has caused logistical, political issues over the years.

Dorset in its entirety should have been placed in Muskoka. Dorset feels like Muskoka. Muskokans fill its shops and restaurants, its residents read the Muskokan newspapers.

For those unaware of the invisible political barrier down the main drag, it is Muskoka.

Similarly, Carnarvon should be located within Algonquin Highlands.

While it's technically located at the very northern tip of Minden Hills, one is oft to see Algonquin Highlands residents in its shops and restaurants (both as customers and employees) and when there's an emergency in the community, it's the trucks from the nearby Stanhope fire hall that are first on scene.

It feels like it's part of Algonquin Highlands.

I've covered Minden Hills council for nearly seven years and can basically count on two hands the number of times the word "Carnarvon" has been spoken in council chambers.

Not that it's council's fault. With no municipal facility or civic space in the community to speak of, Carnarvon mostly comes up in terms of property severances and zoning decisions.

At a farmers' market event recently, Reeve Brent Devolin said he saw great things for Carnarvon in next 10 to 20 years, that the community seemed to be entering a renaissance.

It's not that Carnarvon is struggling. It's home to some bustling, longstanding eateries, a thriving, new-ish eatery, brewery and other busy businesses.

It is, after all, located at the busiest intersection in the county, in terms of car-count.

But still, there is a certain sort of parent-less quality to it.

Perhaps Minden Hills's involvement could be as simple as investigating whether Carnarvon merchants might want a BIA for the community. Maybe that organization could be responsible for seasonal beautification projects at the main intersection.

While there is the blue and white sign along Highway 35 informing southbound travellers they are entering Minden Hills, perhaps the township could erect a decorative, wooden sign, similar to the ones the previous council installed near the village of Minden.

Currently, one of Carnarvon's four corners sits vacant, occupied by just concrete and brush since Carnarvon Bowl burned down nearly two years ago.

Perhaps there's an opportunity for some kind of municipal facility at this location.

While a solely Minden Hills project is likely not feasible, the idea of having a county tourism centre of some kind in Carnarvon has been bandied around the upper tier table in the past.

Maybe the county and Minden Hills could co-operate on some kind of rest stop/tourist info centre/food kiosk on the property.

Maybe Carnarvon's surrogate parent of Algonquin Highlands would also be interested in that type of project.

Before the corner is eaten by a fast food company.

Of boars, bats and bras

IF YOU NEED FURTHER proof that German engineering is superior, look no further than a recent news story about a woman who was cycling in a forest in that country. Unaware that a boar hunt was in progress, she found herself in the line of fire and took an accidental bullet to the chest. But instead of this ending in tragedy, a minor miracle happened.

That bullet, it is reported, hit the underwire of her bra and deflected, leaving only a bruise and a cautionary tale.

First thought? I'm very happy that she was not killed or seriously injured.

My next thought? That bra must be a total bear to undo.

Also, I wonder if that bra manufacturer makes men's underwear.

Look, I don't expect to get accidentally shot in the underwear any time soon – we don't hunt boar here. But getting shot in the underwear is not all we men have to worry about. There are other far more insidious hazards.

In my time here on the planet, I have been laid low by baseballs, softballs, rubber balls, soccer balls, footballs, tennis balls, hockey pucks, toddlers, dogs with sticks and, once, a fish – yes, a fish. Each of these projectiles hit me squarely in the undercarriage and made me cross my eyes.

It hasn't happened in quite a while and that's what worries me. I figure I'm due, which is why I could really use a bit of that German engineering.

For goodness sake, that bra deflected a bullet. Therefore, it ought to be able to handle anything a four-year-old with a baseball bat can throw at me. And, as every man knows, there is nothing in the world more dangerous than a four-year-old with a baseball bat. To this day, it's what I fear most.

The very thought of it makes me cringe.

In fact, I would rather be handcuffed and lowered into a den of lions than placed on a ball diamond filled with four-years-old at batting practice time. Believe me; I know what I'm talking about. I once coached a T-ball team.

The memory of this has only recently resurfaced for me.

With good reason too; T-ball is arguably our most dangerous sport to coach. Heck, even the name hints at the horrible possibilities.

That's why the manufacturers of that bullet deterring bra would do mankind a service if they simply added some of that underwire to the front of men's underwear and marketed it to T-ball coaches.

I'd probably buy a pair or two and I'm not even at risk these days.

Like most men, I don't plan on finding myself within 50 feet of a kid with a bat any time soon – especially since one kid once nailed me after letting go of his Louisville Slugger at the end of a good swing. Having said that, this is summer and spontaneous baseball games break out everywhere. You're never really safe.

Yet, underwear with an underwire cage would provide at least some feeling of security. It would allow those of us with PTSD (post T-ball stress disorder) to live relatively normal lives and not wince or curl up into a fetal position every time we stepped into the baseball section of a sporting goods store.

And, you know, it wouldn't hurt if we were visiting Germany either.

Canada's leadership crisis

THE EARLY DAYS OF THIS MARATHON federal election campaign confirm a sad fact: none of the party leaders is worthy of leading Canadians.

Not one has displayed the courage needed to shake the addiction of serving their political parties and their self interests, instead of the people. None has had the grit to reject toxic politics and personal attacks as tactics for getting elected.

Their policy thoughts are based on information drawn from their most trusted sources: the pollsters, spin doctors, lobbyists and media manipulators.

Canada, like the United States, has lost over the last few decades the concept of servant leadership. At one time political service was an honour and a duty. Thomas Jefferson, author of the U.S. Declaration of Independence, envisioned a government of citizen farmers serving fellow citizens for four years, then returning to their farms.

Now political service is a career, a job that provides good salary, plenty of perks and prestige and excellent pension. All three federal main party leaders – Harper, Mulcair and Trudeau – are career politicians. Their skills are political skills directed at gaining and retaining power for their parties.

JIM POLING SR.
From Shaman's Rock

The problem of having career politicians should be obvious. Because they have no other career (and future retirement income) to fall back on, they must devote more effort and energy to getting re-elected. That means less effort and energy to devote to serving the people.

Servant leadership means putting all others above yourself. It means understanding the interests and needs of your followers and listening actively to what they have to say. It grows from the kind of humility demonstrated by Mahatma Ghandi, who walked among his people in homespun clothes. And from Pope Francis washing the feet of convicted criminals.

It is not that the country lacks leadership. Much good leadership is found outside political arenas. Leaders in industry and business know that cynicism, incivility and belittling their competitors do not grow their enterprises. They understand that gathering diverse views, pursuing change unrestricted by party tenets, and accepting compromise are building blocks for success.

Many of those leaders want no personal involvement in politics that have become too partisan to achieve much of anything.

Howard Schultz, self-made billionaire and Starbucks chairman, gave us some insights into this problem recently when he wrote a piece for New York Times in which he said he would not enter the U.S. presidential election fray.

"Our nation has been profoundly damaged by a lack of civility and courage in Washington, where leaders of both parties have abdicated their responsibility to forge reasonable compromises . . ."

The times in which we live demand strong leaders which we don't have and are unlikely to have soon. Unfortunately it will take a dire crisis for the best leadership to step forward. It has happened before: The Second World War produced Britain's Winston Churchill. The Depression years brought forward C. D. Howe in Canada.

We need people like these to pull us all together. We need leaders who will spend all their energy working together and building consensus.

We have three mainstream parties in Canada capable of forming a federal government. But ours is becoming a one-party system in which the winner forms a government with the principal goal of getting re-elected and the losers spend their time undercutting it.

We need a return to a democracy where there are no winners and no losers. Just elected citizens working on behalf of all Canadians.

That's a pipe dream right now. The October federal election will produce much of the same old, same old. It might be in a different form, with perhaps a minority New Democrat government held up by the Liberals.

And then all the barking will begin anew as each party tries to knock the other out of the way and gain sole ownership of the government.

It probably doesn't matter who wins and who loses. The bureaucrats (remember when they were called public servants) will keep the country running. Hey, look at Italy, or better still Greece, the cradle of our democracy.

This Week In...

When a newspaper has been serving a community for more than half a century, it builds up quite a collection of archives. The Times office is packed with boxes of old papers dating back to the 1960s, when the publication was known as the Minden Progress. It took the name the Times in the 1970s. Each of these boxes is like a time capsule, revealing the issues of the day. Many of the stories provide context for narratives that are still playing out in one way or another today. Every week, the Times will take a look at what happened in Minden 10 years before, in 2005, and 25 years before, in 1990.

From the Aug. 12, 2005 edition:

Algonquin Highlands township has plans to expand the landfill site at Maple Lake as part of its waste management plan and was hosting a series of public meetings in Stanhope. The township would eventually get permission from the MOE for the expansion of the site, nine years later.

Friends of the Bigwin and the Lake of Bays Museum and Navigation Society hold a wooden boat parade at the pier in Dorset. The event was a fundraiser for the restoration of S.S. Bigwin, the steamboat what had once shuttled vacationers from Dorset to the grand resort on Bigwin Island. The Bigwin was officially relaunched on Lake of Bays in 2010.

Saskatchewan Lake resident Bruce Hicks wins gold, silver and bronze medals for water skiing at the World Police and Fire Games in Quebec City.

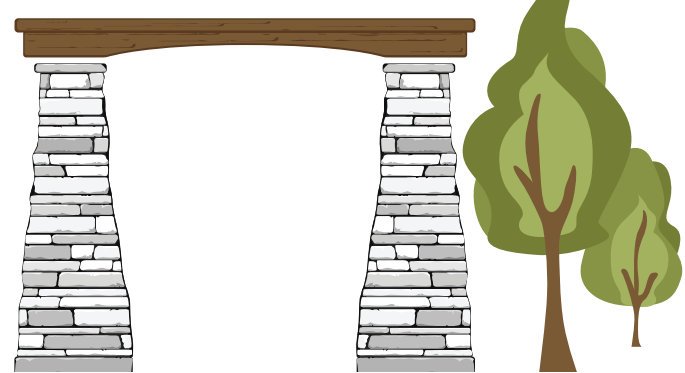

From the Aug. 13, 1990 edition:

Long weekend traffic in Minden claims the lives of three people, Jay Kerr-Wilson reports. On Aug. 4, an 18-year-old man from Ajax was killed in a collision on Highway 35 just south of Carnarvon and on the same day, just two hours later, a head-on collision near Kilcoo Camp south of Minden killed two men aged 22 and 23, respectively.

Norland residents feel like their protest is falling on deaf ears after they meet with reps from Canada Post to discuss the Crown corporation's planned closure of the Norland post office. Residents had started a letter-writing campaign and petition. They were disappointed with action from MP Bill Scott, who said he was an "arm's length" from the situation and had been told he would be in conflict of interest if he got involved.

The next septic issue

To the Editor,

Hauled sewage (domestic septic waste) surface spreading and incorporation was supposed to have been phased-out in Ontario as far back as 1995, but the practice continues. The Environmental Commissioner of Ontario has recommended sweeping changes to the approvals process and monitoring, public comment, input and accountability around this issue. We need to work together to force change!

Many people in the Haliburton area will have heard, by now, that there is a controversial septic waste disposal site application being considered for a property in the southern part of the Township of Algonquin Highlands, and that various efforts are underway to: obtain and disseminate information; press for reconsideration of the proposal; assure thorough review of all the potential risks associated with the proposal and its particular area; or to simply block the proposal at the application stage.

There are valid concerns around the specific proposal that merit close consideration by the authorities and there is not unreasonable skepticism about the commitment and capacity of the regulating authority, the Ontario Ministry of Environment and Climate Change to assess, monitor and enforce regulations as we all feel they should.

Beyond the consideration of any one site proposal, however, we need to understand the larger picture, the system as it stands and the need for change if we are to protect our lakes, rivers and lands.

Ceasing surface spreading of septic waste is a long-term goal, but changing the system to better protect the environment, health, and neighbouring landowners' enjoyment and value of property should be an immediate priority!

Ideally, our waste (now called "hauled sewage") is disposed of and treated in municipal treatment plants or lagoons which, under the planning act, are required services for most municipalities. These are, according to "best practices," closely monitored and well sited so that risks of release and neighbour annoyance/off-site property impacts are minimized. Our tax money pays for these sites with some level of cost recovery coming from dumping fees charged to haulers.

In most rural municipalities, like those in Haliburton County, municipal "septage" (what hauled waste is called once it's delivered for disposal) sites do not have the capacity to accept the volume of waste that WE produce and, in any case, the fees charged to haulers are often considered too high if an alternative is available.

The legal alternative is a private septage disposal/treatment site. For the most-part, these sites are on active or former agricultural lands and the protocol is to incorporate (plow/disc into the soil) septic waste spread on a field, just as a farmer would fertilize with animal waste, except at a rate far above that required for crops and on an ongoing (often daily during the spring – fall period) basis.

Applications for approval to operate these sites are not subject to public scrutiny, comment or review; information about the location of proposed sites is not posted on a registry and is not even made available to the municipalities in which they are proposed; certificates of approval may be given by the MOECC even though a municipality's bylaws and official plan may limit or prohibit this use of land in the area proposed.

Municipalities and individuals need to have more information, input and control over practices that affect and may cause harm. No-one should need to make a formal freedom of information request to find out about clearly public issues that may impact their immediate environment and health!

We create the problem, and we need to work with others to find the best solutions!

Members of lake and property owners' associations are aware, after years of talks and presentations, that the front line for protecting our lakes and rivers from harm by pollutants that cause algae blooms and potential e-coli and toxin contamination is in our backyards, with septic system health – and our front yards, with shoreline health. Associations and individuals are making efforts to ensure that septic waste does not reach the water from individual systems and are, in general and in spite of costs, supportive of septic re-inspection programs being considered by municipal authorities that will help locate problems and maintain the improvements we make.

The fact remains, however, that the problem does not just go away with the pumper truck; we need to be concerned that what leaves our backyards does not simply end up in someone else's... or back in our own.

It's still our problem!

Don't blame the haulers – work with them.

The people that pump out our (hopefully) well maintained septic tanks every couple of years are providing an essential service and should all be assumed to be doing their best to follow all the rules and regulations. They are, like the workers at gas stations, restaurants and the local hardware, local business people trying to make a living in a place where that is not an easy goal.

We need to make it easier for them to provide their services in the best possible manner and to avoid the conflicts that come from working with a system that seems to invite it.

We need to put pressure on the provincial authorities not only to make the application process for septic disposal sites more open and responsive to all our concerns, but to make it easier for our municipal governments to provide safer, better monitored sites with the capacity to receive and treat the wastes we produce.

Blues guitarist heading to Dominion Hotel this Monday

by ANGELICA INGRAM
Times Staff

When Sean Chambers got his first guitar at the age of 11 he was hooked.

The Florida native, now 46, has been in love with music ever since he got his hands on a guitar and heard the sounds of Jimi Hendrix.

"When I was a young kid I grew up listening to classic rock," said Chambers in an interview with the Times.

"When I was a teenager I discovered the blues ... actually I discovered Jimi Hendrix when he was playing Red House and that turned me onto the blues. A buddy of mine picked me up in his car, he had a little Pinto at the time, and I think I was 15 and he was 16, he had just got his licence. And we got in his new car to go for a ride and he put in this cassette tape of Jimi Hendrix and I had never heard Hendrix or the blues and I knew right then that's the kind of style I wanted to play on guitar."

Rock and blues shaped much of Chambers's musical style, which expanded to an appreciation for Texas guitar players such as Freddie King, Billy Gibbons and Stevie Ray. "When I discovered the Texas guys when I was a teenager I started discovering their influences, like Howlin' Wolf and Muddy Waters, kind of going deeper into the blues," he said. "So my style is somewhat traditional blues, blues rock."

Chambers will be bringing his musical style and band to the Dominion Hotel this coming Monday for a concert that promises to both entertain and excite.

The lead guitarist and vocalist, Chambers is backed by drummer Rich Russo and bass player Todd Cook.

With a number of albums under his belt, Chambers will play original songs from his last five recordings, as well as a few covers.

A lifelong musician, Chambers started his career by playing with a guy named Hubert Sumlin, who was the guitarist for Howlin' Wolf.

Being a full-time performer has been both rewarding and challenging, said Chambers.

"It's not the easiest road but I really love what I'm doing and I've always thought that's half the battle," he said. "I really love the ride but it's not always easy ... I feel like I'm really lucky especially the older I get to be doing what I've always wanted to do and be able to pay my bills and travel the world and meet some really great people."

The Sean Chambers Band will perform at the Dominion Hotel at 8:30 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 17. Tickets can be purchased online at www.dominionhotelpub.ca.

Blues guitarist Sean Chambers will be bringing his skills to the Dominion Hotel Pub this Monday to perform a live show with his band. For tickets visit www.dominionhotelpub.ca.

Get an agricultural education at the fair

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

Sheep shearing, rope-making, wood-milling.

Such skills, once central to survival, may be uncommon these days, but residents will be able to blast into the past and check them out at Haliburton County Fair this weekend.

One of the oldest fairs in the country, its 151st incarnation, hosted by the Minden Agricultural Society, will take place at the Minden fairgrounds Aug. 14 and 15.

The gates will open at 4 p.m. on Friday, with the exhibit building, also known as the Minden Curling Club, open until 8 p.m.

There will be entertainment in the grandstand, a mutt show at 6:30 p.m., followed by the pony pull at 7 p.m.

Throughout Saturday there are myriad events. Truck, tractor, lawnmower and horse pulls, a classic car show, a rock climbing wall, an obstacle course and inflatable playthings for the kids.

New this year is a mini-excavator demonstration challenge.

There will be sheep-shearing, rope-making and wood-milling demonstrations, along with spinning and weaving.

In 2015, is it difficult to get people interested in these antique ways of life?

"I wouldn't say that it's difficult," says organizer Andrea Coysh, "because [attendees] are fascinated by it, because they don't know anything about it. There are people who don't realize people do these things anymore."

Other entertainment will include Captain Corbin and the Magic Pirate, the Ruffsport Performance Dog Team and the Re/Max balloon will allow fair-goers to see all the happenings from the air.

There are children's events, an auction and musical entertainment.

On Saturday, the Ballagh Bunch – think fiddling and step-dancing – will perform at 11:30 a.m. They'll be followed by the Gary Hooper Show at 2 p.m. and Stockdale Central with special guests Wendy Connelly and Linda Robertson at 4:30.

Adult admission for Friday night is $6, children under 16, $3. For Saturday, admission is $10 and for children under 16, $6. All children's activities are free with admission.

A weekend pass is $15 for adults and $8 for children under 16.

Garlic festival brings celebrity chef to Stanhope

The eighth annual Haliburton County Garlic Festival will be held on Saturday, Aug. 22 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Stanhope Community facility on North Shore Road (5 km north of Carnarvon).

The festival is organized by the Haliburton County Garlic Growers Association and will promote local garlic vendors, as well as other produce, food, and artisan vendors. There will also be several garlic-themed demonstrations and workshops taking place throughout the day.

Demonstrations and workshops:

Cooking With Garlic

Celebrity Chef, Geremy Capone, will lead two cooking demonstrations at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Geremy is the wellness chef at the ELLICSR Health, Wellness and Cancer Survivorship Centre and helps run the ELLICSR Kitchen Program. Through this program they research and develop recipes that are delicious, easy to prepare, healthy, cost effective and as seasonal as possible. Geremy enjoys being part of the vibrant ELLICSR team and “aims to provide individuals touched by cancer with the knowledge, skills and resources to take charge of their health and wellness.” Join Geremy to learn about different ways to cook with garlic as well as its nutritional value.

Author Peter McClusky will promote his new book titled: Ontario Garlic: The Story from Farm to Festival.

McClusky is the founder of the Toronto Garlic Festival and “serves up garlic’s long journey from central Asia to its now-revered place in the hearts and dishes of Ontarians. Growing tips and 40 recipes bring Ontario garlic from farm to festival to feast.”

Garlic Braiding Workshop

A 20-minute interactive workshop will be offered to learn the art of garlic braiding. Pre-registration is preferred by emailing Ron Reid at re9id@interhop.net or phoning 705-489-2431. Participants can purchase garlic available at the festival and will take home their very own hand crafted eight-garlic bulb braid.

Growing Your Own Garlic Workshop

Interested in growing garlic? Curious and want to find out more? This workshop is open to everyone and is ongoing throughout the day. Expert growers will be available to walk you step-by-step through the garlic growing process from planting to harvesting. You will also learn about building your soil, the benefits of raised beds, seed garlic, winter protection, spring maintenance, scaping, curing, and storage.

Children’s activities

“Stepping through the four seasons of garlic” is this year’s theme for the children’s interactive garlic activity centre. The activity station will provide a hands-on opportunity to learn everything from getting the soil ready to harvesting and replanting. It will also include a bulbil (garlic seed) project that kids and interested persons can take home with them to continue the next generation. Our resident face painter will also be on hand to add colour to your day and face as you step through the four seasons of garlic!

We still need volunteers! If you are interested volunteering for all or part of the day please phone 705-489-2431 or 705-489-4201.

Minden flower show creates an enchanted forest

by ANGELICA INGRAM

Vitamins, sunlight and an occasional scolding.

Those are the ingredients that led to a recipe for success for Sandria Garry, winner of this year's best in show prize at the annual Minden and District Horticultural Society's flower show, held on Aug. 7 and 8.

An avid member of the society and Minden resident for the past 12 years, Garry took first place for her crown of thorns, which is a tall plant that flowers all year, particularly at Easter, which is where its biblical name is derived from.

Garry received a small branch of the plant five years ago from a girlfriend and has been taking good care of it ever since, resulting in its significant growth.

"It sits on a table in the dining room near a window," she said. "It likes where it's sitting."

Native to Madagascar, the plant's origins go back to the Middle East. While it is common for the plant to have flowers, Garry said it is uncommon for it to be flowering at this time of year.

Featuring vibrant green leaves with soft yellow flowers with a rich, jewel-toned orange in the centre, Garry said yellow is also rare for this type of plant.

Aside from ensuring it gets lots of sunlight, Garry also gives the crown of thorns vitamins and the occasional talking to.

"I talk to it," she laughs. "I tell it to smarten up."

A society member for more than a decade, Garry was delighted upon hearing she was the winner of the show's top prize this year.

"I was so thrilled," she said, beaming with joy.

This year's show, held at the SG Nesbitt Community Centre, was lush with entries, which varied from tiger lilies to perennials to vegetables.

Following an enchanted forest theme, the show welcomed hundreds of visitors who came out to take in the beauty and the workshops.

Show chairwoman Margaret Giles credited the increase in entries this year to a summer of better weather and a show held later in the season.

Judging took place at 1 p.m. on Aug. 7 by members from the Beaverton and Lindsay societies.

"They not only judged but gave a lot of constructive criticism," said Giles.

Minden & District Horticultural Society members Rose Paliwoda, left, past society president Elizabeth Carrell, centre, and flower show chairwoman Margaret Giles, admire a mystical pool created at the annual flower show on Aug. 7 at the S.G. Nesbitt Community Centre. Many entries were created with an enchanted garden theme, including the junior entries, which had fairy homes and more.

A variety of lush flowers and plants were on display at the annual flower show, including this tiger lily. There were more entries in this year's show, which organizers attributed to the better growing season this summer and the fact the show was held later in the season. ANGELICA INGRAM Staff

There were a variety of flowers to peruse at the annual Minden Flower Show on Aug. 7 and 8, held at the S.G. Nesbitt Community Centre. Hosted by the Minden and District Horticultural Society, this year's show had an Enchanted Garden theme, complete with fairies, gnomes and more.

Bark Lake hosts camp for hearing-impaired children

Bark Lake played host to 105 eager children and their families learning how to find their voice Aug. 7 and 8. VOICE for Hearing Impaired Children, a service that helps deaf children with hearing aids or cochlear implants learn to speak and listen, held their annual two-day family camp. Children from 65 families invited to the camp are in the process of learning to speak and listen with the assistance of technology. In addition to helping kids learning to navigate their new world of sound, the camp gives children growing up in urban environments the chance to experience the great outdoors for a few days.

A pitcher from a time before plastic.

Consider life without plastic

by CHAD INGRAM
Times Staff

A new exhibit at the Minden Hills Museum is asking attendees to consider life without the ubiquity of plastic products and what the implications of disposable items has been on our culture.

Considerations, brainchild of cultural centre curator Laurie Carmount, is on display in the Sterling Bank building at the Minden Hills Cultural Centre.

"This exhibition is to evoke dialogue about the impact of our everyday items," Carmount says. "When an easier way of life starts to cause fundamental problems for everyone, then let's consider our actions. Today our mass consumption is jeopardizing our future — perhaps the past holds solutions."

The show consists of a variety of consumer items from the pre-plastic era, items made from glass, metal and natural fibres.

"Natural fibres are actually much better to store food in," Carmount says, adding that today, even the fibres used in clothing are heavily synthesized. "Most of us are wearing plastic."

One of the pieces in the show is a stoneware vessel.

Carmount points out that stoneware, functional and reusable, was utilized by humans for millennia.

"Why we don't use it today, it just doesn't make sense," she said.

Along with the mass production of plastic consumer items came the loss of artfulness that handmade items possess.

"They didn't just make a pitcher, they made a beautiful pitcher," Carmount says.

How will smartphones, digital communication and the loss of cursive writing affect culture?

"How will future generations read historical documents?" Carmount asks. "How many text messages have you kept from your loved ones?"

The show runs until Oct. 12.

Friends from afar make birthdays better

AROUND THE TOWN

Patti Fleury

705-488-2938 brucefleury1@hotmail.com

Here at the old farmhouse a chorus of "Happy Birthday" rang out in the kitchen as younger daughter Caitlin blew out her candles. She along with her partner Rick and his eight-year-old son Michael had driven up for the day and also had a chance to visit with our cousin Margo from London, Ont. Every Christmas the first item on Margo's wish list from us is a renewal of her subscription to the Minden Times. An avid Times reader she will see this and know that we officially (in print) enjoyed her company and appreciate the lengthy drive she is willing to make. David and Rita also dropped by with their Cincinnati friends who were cottaging with them at Crystal Lake. Many years ago David and Mark were in the same Eastman-Kodak training class in Rochester, New York and have remained in contact. The first time we met Mark and his wife Kikki, then a commercial airline pilot. It was confusing as they called us Beverley and Bob all evening. It turned out that prankster David had told them those names along with other achievements attributed to Bruce (a.k.a Bob) including building the swing bridge over the locks in Bobcaygeon.

Just a brief follow-up note on the 17th Journey for Health in support of the Kinmount and District Health Services Foundation. On Sunday, Aug. 9 under sunny skies and comfortable temperatures there was a great turnout of participants guaranteeing a very successful event. Appreciation is extended to all who contributed to this important annual community fundraiser in a variety of ways from actively walking, donating or providing refreshments along the way. Watch for more specific details as they become available.

The deadline of Aug. 15 to submit nominations for the Kinmount and District Lions Club's Citizen of the Year award is fast approaching so put on your thinking caps. There are so many great volunteers who fit the criteria as expressed by the Club "a person from the Kinmount area who has served their community with dedication and service to make Kinmount a better place." Please send the name of your nominee along with a letter explaining why you have chosen him/her to the

The monthly book sale held by the Friends of the Library will be this Saturday, Aug. 15 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the lower level of the Kinmount branch. There are great bargains and still time to catch up on your summer reading. Funds raised from the book sales have supported purchases for the outdoor reading garden and children's programs. If interested in becoming part of the Friends of the Library please drop by or call the branch at 705-488-3199.

At the Legion Branch 441 Kinmount coming up on Tuesday, Aug. 25 there will be the monthly liver and onions lunch served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The cost for entree, dessert and beverage is only $8 and note that a delicious alternative is always available if you are not a L and O fan. There is a call out for all Trivia fans to try their skill at the Trivia Night on Saturday, Aug. 29. Enjoy a delicious dinner and dessert followed by a fun night of trivia featuring Quizmaster David McGill. The cost is $20/person with tickets available at the Legion (705-488-3462), K & T Cafe in Kinmount and the Irondale General Store.

Entry booklets and Programs for the famous Kinmount Fair on Labour Day weekend September 4 to 6 are available at local businesses or by visiting the website at www.kinmount-fair.net. Please remember that the Warrior's Day Parade is held on Saturday with the first participants scheduled to arrive at the entry to the fairgrounds at noon. This is a fabulous but very large Parade which marshals ahead at then leaves the Railway Station yards enroute to the Fairgrounds along Main Street then up Hwy. 503. This affects traffic coming to Kinmount from all directions for a considerable lengthy period of time. Plan to arrive at the fair before the parade starts out or after it completes and if just passing through town best to consider an alternate route during that timeframe.

Until next week keep busy and well. They go together...

Those of you who have been missing the Liver Lovers Tuesdays, you'll be happy to know they are back thanks to Joan Shaddock cooking. If liver is not your "thing," there is also a full lunch menu served from noon to 2 p.m. Minden Legion welcomes the public to lunch every weekday. The patio is being well used, including last Friday's fish night. People were enjoying their supper in the clubroom and the hall and even some in the sports room. There was lots of activity as open darts start at 7:30 Friday nights. If you enjoy the game, come as a spare, a team, or just to watch.

This month's Dinner for Two draw is for Summerkiss Restaurant on Hwy 35 near Moore Lake, and the $75 certificate will be valid for one full year. The draw takes place on Monday, Aug. 31 and tickets are available at the bar, $2 each or 3 for $5. You do not have to be a Legion member to participate in the draw. Minden Legion supports the food bank with a monthly donation.

The next Junk in the Trunk Sale will be Sept. 19, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Start clearing out your garage and basement now so you'll have lots to sell from your reserved spot. Minden Cemetery Decoration Day also takes place later in that same afternoon. An additional twenty new crosses have been created, and will be placed beside the graves of those who served in the Armed Forces and are buried in Minden Cemetery. There will be chairs set up so you do not have to stand throughout the service which honours your ancestor or family member.

NOTICE OF PASSING OF A ZONING BY-LAW AMENDMENT

BY-LAW 15-99

11993 HIGHWAY 35 (FILE NO. RZ-15-06)

TAKE NOTICE THAT the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Minden Hills passed By-Law No. 15-99 on the 30th day of July, 2015, under the provisions of Section 34 of the Planning Act, RSO 1990, c. P. 13

THE PURPOSE AND EFFECT The subject property is presently zoned Highway Commercial Exception Fourteen (C1-14). The purpose of the zoning by-law amendment is to amend the site specific zoning to include Commercial Self Storage as a permitted use in order to allow for such future development. The site specific amendment applies to property municipally known as 11993 Highway 35 and being located in Part of Lot 1, Concession 14 in the Geographic Township of Lutterworth (see Key Map Below).

IN ORDER TO APPEAL the Zoning By-law Amendment, notice of the appeal must be filed with the Clerk of the Township of Minden Hills no later than 4:30 p.m. on the 2nd day of September, 2015. The notice of appeal must set out the reasons for the appeal and must be accompanied by the prescribed fee of $125.00 payable to the Minister of Finance by certified cheque, or money order, and a completed "Appellant Form". Appellant Forms are available from the Ontario Municipal Board website at www.omb.gov.on.ca, or by contacting the Township.

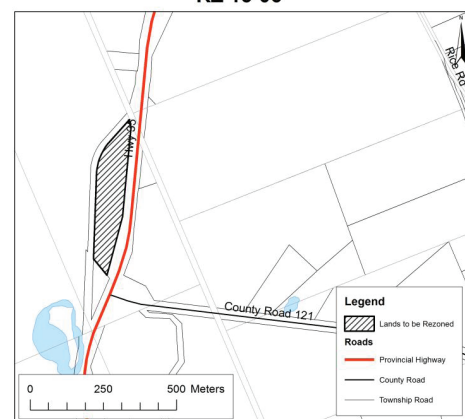

ONLY INDIVIDUALS, CORPORATIONS AND PUBLIC BODIES may appeal a zoning by-law to the Ontario Municipal Board. A notice of appeal may not be filed by an unincorporated association or group. However, a notice of appeal may be filed in the name of an individual who is a member of the association or the group on its behalf.

NO PERSON OR PUBLIC BODY shall be added as a party to the hearing of the appeal unless, before the by-law was passed, the person or public body made oral submissions at a public meeting or written submissions to the council or, in the opinion of the Ontario Municipal Board, there are reasonable grounds to add the person or public body as a party.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION relating to the Zoning By-law Amendment is available for inspection at the Township of Minden Hills Municipal Office located at 7 Milne Street, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday. Any questions related to the By-law should be directed to the Township's Planner, Ian Clendening, at 705-286-1260 (ext.206).

Rotary fights hunger

The Rotary Club of Minden presented a cheque to Marilynne Lesperance for the Community Kitchen (Minden Community Food Centre). This money was raised through 50/50 raffle tickets at the Minden Hills Bluegrass Festival.

The picture is taken in front of the Entrance bearing the sign "Rotary helps open doors to hunger relief."
